GLOSSARY

Apprenticeship – A system of training in which an individual learns a trade, craft, or profession through a combination of workplace experience and formal instruction. Apprenticeships are typically supervised by skilled professionals and may lead to recognized certifications or qualifications in fields such as construction, healthcare, technology, and the arts.

Creative Documentation – The process of recording artistic, cultural, or creative works through expressive formats such as journals, photography, video, multimedia presentations, and other artistic methods. It is used to preserve, interpret, and communicate creative projects, processes, and experiences.

Creative Industries – Sectors focused on the creation, production, and distribution of creative goods and services that rely on innovation, talent, and intellectual property. These include advertising, design, film, music, publishing, gaming, architecture, and the performing and visual arts, which contribute to cultural and economic development.

Critiquing – The process of analyzing, evaluating, and providing constructive feedback on a work, idea, or performance. It aims to identify strengths, areas for improvement, and opportunities for growth through respectful and informed dialogue.

Dance Artists – Individuals who create, perform, choreograph, or teach dance as an art form. They use movement, creativity, and expression to communicate ideas, emotions, or narratives across various dance styles and may engage in research and collaboration within the performing arts industry.

Dance Centers – Specialized institutions, facilities, or organizations dedicated to dance education, training, performance, and community engagement. They provide structured programs in various dance genres, such as ballet, contemporary, hip hop, folk, and ballroom dance, and serve as venues for artistic development.

Dance Industries – The sectors and organizations involved in the creation, performance, education, production, and promotion of dance. These include professional dance companies, choreographers, educators, event organizers, production teams, and related businesses such as costume design, music composition, and dance media. The dance industries contribute to cultural expression, entertainment, and economic development.

Ethical Art Production – The practice of creating art in ways that respect social, cultural, and environmental values. This includes fair treatment of collaborators, sustainable use of materials, cultural sensitivity, and adherence to copyright and intellectual property laws. Ethical art production promotes integrity, inclusivity, and responsibility in the artistic process.

Portfolio – A curated collection of works that demonstrates an individual's skills, achievements, and experiences in a specific field. Portfolios may be presented in physical or digital formats and commonly include samples, case studies, and project documentation.

Project Proposal – A formal document that outlines a proposed project, including its objectives, scope, timeline, budget, and expected outcomes. It is typically presented to stakeholders, clients, or funding bodies to gain approval or secure resources and includes strategies for implementation and methods for evaluating success.
